

Think You'd Like to Apply for an ASTEF Project Stipend?

Helpful Tips for Designing, Developing, Implementing, Managing, and Evaluating a Project That Will Make an Impact

1. Congratulations! Just by contemplating it, you are on your way to making a difference for Texas educators and students!
2. Projects must further ASTE's mission:
 - a. Provide services and activities that support professional and personal growth of women educators in Texas and promote educational excellence for Texas students.
 - b. Because ASTEF is a public charity and serves members as well as non-members, projects that serve teachers and other educators must include both men and women in the provision of all services and activities. Men must not be excluded.
 - c. In the application, you must describe how your project is directly connected to ASTEF's mission.
3. Identify a specific need or problem in your community/school and propose a solution to the need or problem.
 - a. Decide first what you want to accomplish ~ what your vision is and what your goal is. It may involve creating a brand new project, or it may involve enhancing or expanding an existing project.
 - b. Conduct research, study the problem and proposed solutions, and work as a team to develop solutions that meet the needs of your targeted audience.
4. Projects that support early-career educators:
 - a. Chapters are strongly encouraged to provide some form of mentoring for the early-career educators during the school year in addition to the more tangible teacher and/or classroom supplies and materials.
 - b. Mentoring programs are designed to answer a new teacher's questions and fill in the gaps left by university teacher training programs. New teachers may need advice and guidance pertaining to classroom organization and management, discipline management, recordkeeping, teaching strategies, etc. Most importantly, new teachers want emotional support during the year, and experienced teachers can provide it. Don't be afraid to share your experiences and advice!
 - c. One-time events or activities are highly discouraged.

Think You'd Like to Apply for an ASTEF Project Stipend? (cont'd.)

5. Design objectives and activities that will help you realize your vision and accomplish your goal, thereby addressing the need, problem, or idea that you have identified.
 - a. Decide what activities will occur, where they will occur, when they will occur, and why they will occur (rationale).
 - b. Develop specific activities, including a timeline for major activities.
 - c. Identify the resources that will be needed to carry out your project: i.e., money, chapter members, other volunteers, supplies and materials, etc.
 - d. You must describe in the application specifically how members will be involved and the number of members to be involved in carrying out the various activities.
 - e. You are encouraged to develop activities that involve most or all of your members in some aspect. One or two members involved in the project is not sufficient when it is a "chapter" project.
 - f. Develop a budget sufficient to carry out the activities for the project and other potential funding.
6. Project stipends are intended to provide "seed money" to assist a recipient in implementing a new project or to assist in expanding or enhancing an existing project. If you are requesting continuation funding:
 - a. You must describe how this project will be different from the prior project. ASTEF is not likely to fund the same project with no expansion, the same focus, etc.
 - b. You must describe how you plan to support ASTEF.

To pursue the application process, visit the Forms tab on the ASTEF website at www.astef.org. Review the Project Stipend Application Guide and the Project Stipend Application for more detail.

To learn more about the requirements and expectations once you are awarded a Project Stipend, view the document entitled "Now That You Have Received a Project Stipend: Best Practices in Project Management" posted on the Forms tab.

Here's to great success in designing a project that will make an impact!